

Dear Store Manager,

I consider price when making my purchases, but I am equally concerned that the products I buy are made by workers who:

- labor in a safe and dignified workplace;
- are paid a wage sufficient to feed their families;
- are free to unionize without fear of being fired.

I am willing to pay more if that ensures that other families can feed, clothe, and house themselves.

Company purchasing policies are the greatest determinant of the quality of life for workers around the world. When your company buys only from factories that pay the lowest wages, you drive wages down everywhere.

- I urge your company to write and enforce a Code of Conduct, and to require your sub-contractors to post it widely in their employees' language.
- I urge you to require that your contractors respect workers' right to organize unions, that their factories be free of sexual and verbal abuse, and that you offer them a fair price for their products.

I intend to stay informed and to follow these issues closely. I will make my future buying decisions based on progress to improve worker justice.

Sincerely,

Dear Store Manager,

I consider price when making my purchases, but I am equally concerned that the products I buy are made by workers who:

- labor in a safe and dignified workplace;
- are paid a wage sufficient to feed their families;
- are free to unionize without fear of being fired.

I am willing to pay more if that ensures that other families can feed, clothe, and house themselves.

Company purchasing policies are the greatest determinant of the quality of life for workers around the world. When your company buys only from factories that pay the lowest wages, you drive wages down everywhere.

- I urge your company to write and enforce a Code of Conduct, and to require your sub-contractors to post it widely in their employees' language.
- I urge you to require that your contractors respect workers' right to organize unions, that their factories be free of sexual and verbal abuse, and that you offer them a fair price for their products.

I intend to stay informed and to follow these issues closely. I will make my future buying decisions based on progress to improve worker justice.

Sincerely,

Dear Store Manager,

I consider price when making my purchases, but I am equally concerned that the products I buy are made by workers who:

- labor in a safe and dignified workplace;
- are paid a wage sufficient to feed their families;
- are free to unionize without fear of being fired.

I am willing to pay more if that ensures that other families can feed, clothe, and house themselves.

Company purchasing policies are the greatest determinant of the quality of life for workers around the world. When your company buys only from factories that pay the lowest wages, you drive wages down everywhere.

- I urge your company to write and enforce a Code of Conduct, and to require your sub-contractors to post it widely in their employees' language.
- I urge you to require that your contractors respect workers' right to organize unions, that their factories be free of sexual and verbal abuse, and that you offer them a fair price for their products.

I intend to stay informed and to follow these issues closely. I will make my future buying decisions based on progress to improve worker justice.

Sincerely,

Dear Store Manager,

I consider price when making my purchases, but I am equally concerned that the products I buy are made by workers who:

- labor in a safe and dignified workplace;
- are paid a wage sufficient to feed their families;
- are free to unionize without fear of being fired.

I am willing to pay more if that ensures that other families can feed, clothe, and house themselves.

Company purchasing policies are the greatest determinant of the quality of life for workers around the world. When your company buys only from factories that pay the lowest wages, you drive wages down everywhere.

- I urge your company to write and enforce a Code of Conduct, and to require your sub-contractors to post it widely in their employees' language.
- I urge you to require that your contractors respect workers' right to organize unions, that their factories be free of sexual and verbal abuse, and that you offer them a fair price for their products.

I intend to stay informed and to follow these issues closely. I will make my future buying decisions based on progress to improve worker justice.

Sincerely,