

Support Indonesian Workers!

In February 2004, the entire workforce—1,637 people— was fired from a Kohl's supplier factory in Indonesia for simply trying to negotiate a wage increase as guaranteed by their union contract. The factory, PT. Sarasa Nugraha Balaraja, had made pants for Kohl's for several years and was making Kohl's goods at the time of the mass layoff. In October 2004, after being unemployed for over 8 months, the workers were able to win a reinstatement agreement with the help of their union and Campaign for Labor Rights. Unfortunately, management and Kohl's have repeatedly failed to honor the October agreement, and as a result 239 workers are still out of work. These workers desperately need their jobs back!

For more information, contact:
Campaign for Labor Rights, clr@clrlabor.org
Visit: www.campaignforlaborrights.org

Kohl's, as a buyer from this factory, should insist that management honor their reinstatement promise. Give this flyer to Kohl's store manager, with your signature on the reverse side, to show that you believe Kohl's should use its influence to defend workers' rights!

Support Indonesian Workers!

In February 2004, the entire workforce—1,637 people— was fired from a Kohl's supplier factory in Indonesia for simply trying to negotiate a wage increase as guaranteed by their union contract. The factory, PT. Sarasa Nugraha Balaraja, had made pants for Kohl's for several years and was making Kohl's goods at the time of the mass layoff. In October 2004, after being unemployed for over 8 months, the workers were able to win a reinstatement agreement with the help of their union and Campaign for Labor Rights. Unfortunately, management and Kohl's have repeatedly failed to honor the October agreement, and as a result 239 workers are still out of work. These workers desperately need their jobs back!

For more information, contact:
Campaign for Labor Rights, clr@clrlabor.org
Visit: www.campaignforlaborrights.org

Kohl's, as a buyer from this factory, should insist that management honor their reinstatement promise. Give this flyer to Kohl's store manager, with your signature on the reverse side, to show that you believe Kohl's should use its influence to defend workers' rights!